

PARDON COURT DENIES HAUPTMANN CLEMENCY

VERA STRETZ ON STAND AT MURDER TRIAL

Sobs Sordid Details Of Brutal Assault On Her

New York, March 30.—(P)—Vera Stretz sobbed in sordid detail late today a story of a brutal assault upon her by Dr. Fritz Gebhardt and of how she repulsed his unnatural advances with four pistol bullets.

The German industrialist she once loved, she testified, came to her room to his hotel room the night of last November 11 on the pretext that he was ill and wanted her to minister to him as she had done before. She had been alone when he phoned her. She threw a coat over her chemise and went to his room, two floors above her own in the Beekman Towers hotel.

Gebhardt seized her.

"He was swearing, cursing," she testified, "and he was holding me by the neck of the neck and the arms and the legs. He was saying, 'I never heard from a gentleman before. I don't remember all of them. He said, 'Oh, you damned—, you're not like my others, but you will be before you leave this room. You'll do everything I want you to do.'"

She broke down and sobbed and her words became inaudible.

Keep your handkerchief out of your mouth," instructed Judge Cornelius F. Collins.

"Tell us exactly what transpired," Leibowitz prompted.

"I said, 'Let me go, let me go,' I screamed," she continued.

"He said, 'You'll do everything I want you to do.' I was horrified. I said, 'God no, never I remembered the gun and I took it in my hand.'"

"He said, 'You damned—, I'll kill you.' He grabbed my hand and pulled me toward him and I pulled away from him and that's when the gun went off. He fell on the bed and staggered up again and I shot him again."

Q. How many times did you shoot?
A. I don't know.
Q. How many times did you pull the trigger?
A. I don't know.

Q. Were you afraid of serious bodily injury at the time you shot him?
A. Yes.

Judge Collins sustained an objection when Leibowitz asked if she feared Gebhardt was going to force her to commit an unnatural act, but the court then inquired whether she had anything to add to her recital.

"Yes," said the weeping witness and described an attempted unnatural relationship in such a low voice that she had to go through the ordeal again and repeat it for the jury.

"He said, 'If you want to make it the last night, you'll have to make it a good one,' she concluded.

Leibowitz then had her testify she did not intend to pull the trigger the first time she shot, and that she did not know what she was doing, and relate her actions up to the time the police arrived and found her.

Then he turned her over for cross-examination, but Miles M. O'Brien, assistant district attorney, had her for only a few perfunctory questions before court adjourned until tomorrow.

Realestate Dealer Who Plead Guilty Granted Probation

Louis O. Silberman Accused Of Falsifying Bail Bond

Chicago, March 30.—(P)—Louis O. Silberman, 36, a former real estate dealer who pleaded guilty Feb. 17 to a charge of falsifying a bail bond for a signature, was placed on probation for one year by Judge Joseph Burke of the criminal court today.

Silberman, a notary public, was accused of falsifying a bail bond furnished in a Rockford, Ill. court for Robert Hanisch, a Rockford man charged with robbery with a gun.

The charge against Silberman arose when Hanisch forfeited the bond and Rockford authorities began action in the Cook county (Chicago) courts to take over a parcel of Chicago property scheduled as security.

John and Albert Becker of suburban Evanston, owner of the property, denied signatures on the property deed presented Rockford authorities were theirs. Questioned by police, Silberman said he got the deed from a Carl Vogel, acting as agent for the Beckers. The former attorney admitted notarizing the deed with the Beckers' signatures outside of their presence, but denied he had written the signatures himself.

Silberman's motion for probation was granted when the court was informed that the defendant had since received title to the property from the Beckers and had decided to move to Winnebago (Rockford) county authorities.

Sharp Dispute Envelops Flood Control Program

Senator Copeland Says It May Be Swollen Into $1,000,000 Bill

Associated Press Staff Writer
Washington, March 30.—(P)—A concerted rush by Senators and Representatives to include their own projects in the $300,000,000 flood control bill being drafted by the Senate commerce committee today brought a prediction from its chairman, Senator Copeland (D-N.Y.), that it would be swollen into a $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 measure.

The prospect of a prolonged battle over the legislation was heightened by a warning from Senator Robinson of Arkansas, majority leader, that he would oppose it as now written because it discriminated in favor of eastern states.

Later he told reporters army engineers would submit another report to the commerce committee "greatly liberalizing" their original recommendations for projects, particularly in Arkansas. He has asked the committee to restore the $300,000,000 bill to its $750,000,000 size as passed by the house last session. Then it contained many projects for the Mississippi Valley.

"Other flood control developments during the day included:

The house rules committee approved a rule giving right of way to a measure which would authorize the reconstruction corporation to make loans totaling $25,000,000 for rehabilitation and reconstruction in flood areas on security "to reasonably assure repayment" instead of "upon sufficient security" as at present.

The Tennessee Valley authority asked for congress for authority to construct six additional dams costing $144,500,000 to aid on controlling floods on the lower Mississippi river.

The TAV report said power development would only be incidental to flood control and navigation purposes.

Candidate Claims He Was Assaulted

Chicago, March 30.—(P)—Walter F. Dzurigot, 33, merchant and a candidate for Democratic ward committee-man, today swore out a warrant charging assault and battery against Joseph Brindisi, Democratic precinct captain and a deputy bailiff.

Dzurigot's complaint asserted Brindisi and three other men beat him with a club yesterday while he was putting up a poster urging support of Governor Henry Horner.

Former State Rep. A. O. Galvin, attorney representing Dzurigot, also filed a complaint against Brindisi in behalf of Ray Josefowicz, 30, who charged the precinct captain forcibly interfered with the distribution of a foreign language newspaper.

BRITISH PLAN PARLEYS WITH TWO NATIONS

Will Discuss Military Plans With France And Belgium

By Charles P. Nutter
London, March 30.—(P)—The British cabinet had tentatively decided tonight to begin military conversations with France and Belgium next week.

Both the French and Belgians are to be consulted immediately, authoritative sources said, by diplomatic representatives as to the date when the preliminary discussions, agreed upon in the Locarno proposals in event of German refusal of the peace plan, are to start.

The location of the conference may be Brussels, informed sources indicated, after the cabinet had decided and Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin had assured the House of Commons the British general staff would not be allowed to involve the government in commitments.

Any arrangement formulated by the military staff must be approved by the cabinet, the British prime minister emphasized.

"The plan for general staff conversations was attached to the Locarno peace proposals in letters from Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, to Pierre-Etienne Flandin, French foreign minister, and Paul Zeeland, Belgian minister.

"These letters provided: If Germany refuses the proposals, which Reichsfuehrer Hitler subsequently did, England will join Belgium and France in consultations for the purpose of insuring the security of your country against unprovoked aggression," and further, will instruct the general staff "to enter into contact with a view to arranging technical conditions" during such consultations.

As the arrangements were pending, the British awaited announcement from Chancellor Hitler of his new peace suggestions to establish a new European security pact. Officials said there has been no indication the Fuehrer's reply will be delayed longer than tomorrow, the date the German plan is expected.

Four Indicted For Murder Of Dr. S. C. Peacock

Cook County Grand Jury Returns Indictments In Quick Time

Chicago, March 30.—(P)—The Cook county grand jury today voted a murder indictment against the four confessed "teen age slayers" of Dr. S. C. Peacock.

Less than two hours and the testimony of a half dozen witnesses intervened between the grand jury's convening and its return to the bills naming Robert Goethe, Durland Nash, Emil Reack—all 19—, and Michael Livingston, 17, as the "mercy kill" slayers last January 2.

The four last signed confessions of the crime before an informal "jury" of ten prominent citizens, to insure against pleas of duress when the case comes to trial.

Within ten days—the minimum period allowed by the law between indictment and trial—Prosecutor Thomas Courtney said he expected the quartet to be defending themselves in court against the death penalty he will ask.

Reversing an earlier decision to wait for the testimony of Dr. Peacock's widow, who is ill at her parents' home in Bowen, Ill., the state's attorney's office laid the statements of the prisoners and testimony of its witnesses before the grand jurors shortly after noon. The indictment was voted within an hour and a half.

The rapid movement of the case followed a decision of the prosecutors to concentrate for the time being on the Peacock slaying. Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert Crowley said investigations would be continued later in the day to the half a hundred hold-ups credited to the young gangsters and to their possible implication in other unsolved killings.

Alice M. Coulter Wife Of Polo Star Commits Suicide

Was Principal In Secret Court-Martial Which Ousted Husband

San Antonio, Texas, March 30.—(P)—Justice of the Peace O. L. Wiley held today that Mrs. Alice Morgan Coulter, wife of Harold K. (Duke) Coulter, polo star and ousted Army Captain, shot herself to death in her apartment yesterday.

Justice Wiley's suicide verdict was returned a full day after Mrs. Coulter's body was found by a maid. A bullet had entered her head and a revolver lay nearby.

Coulter, who has been training ponies, was located at Seguin, Texas, and notified of the tragedy.

Comely Mrs. Coulter was one of the principals in a secret court-martial that led to her husband's dismissal from the army. The proceeding brought an allegation that he was guilty of misconduct while he was married to another woman.

Mrs. Coulter was the divorced wife of William F. Morgan, oil man, who was awarded custody of their small son, William F., Jr., a year ago. The operator of the apartment house, Mrs. J. H. Ruppel, said the mother had appeared despondent lately over the loss of her child.

Persons prominent in San Antonio society testified behind closed doors at the court-martial. The Fort Sam Houston officer's dismissal was approved by the war department, Oct. 4, 1934.

120,000 Persons In Milwaukee, Are Ill With "Flu"

City Health Commissioner Believes Epidemic At Its Height

Milwaukee, March 30.—(P)—An officially estimated 120,000 persons, one-fifth of the city's population, were ill and one man was dead today from an abdominal malady described by some health authorities as intestinal influenza.

Dr. John P. Koehler, city health commissioner, expressed the opinion that the epidemic was at its height and would begin to taper off by the middle of the week. In giving the estimate, he said one out of four of his acquaintances were either ill or had recovered.

The personnel of practically all factories, stores and offices was affected. One department store reported more than 200 clerks have been ill during the last week or 10 days.

Dr. Koehler said the disease is communicable and apparently is transmitted by air or direct contact. Physicians said it usually sweeps through entire families.

Gripping pains, nausea and diarrhea distinguished the malady. In many cases patients are bed-ridden several days. Dr. Koehler said that because the symptoms are akin to those of appendicitis, sufferers should consult a doctor. Although a physician attributed the death of Edward Hecker, 41, to intestinal influenza, Dr. Koehler said the malady sweeping the city could not be regarded as ordinarily fatal. The great danger, he said, is that leaves the patient so weakened he is susceptible to more serious diseases.

The malady was first discovered among school children several weeks ago. The majority of cases reported today were among adults.

The city's water is polluted, but Dr. Koehler said it was not responsible for the epidemic, although he warned users to boil their drinking water. The supply comes from Lake Michigan.

The administration also won another battle—this one of a tactical nature—when the court rejected an appeal for review of a case intended to test constitutionality of the utility holding company act.

With one word—"denied"—the tribunal in effect upheld the government's contention that validity of the controversial law was not involved in the attempt of Bureau, Inc., of Baltimore, to force the American States Public Service Company to register under the act with the securities commission.

(The Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals at Charlotte, N. C., had held that American States was engaged in purely intra-state commerce, and therefore was exempt from federal regulation and did not have to register. That decision was permitted to stand.)

Miami, Fla., March 20.—(P)—The resignation of Judge Samuel Alschuler of the federal circuit court of appeals for the seventh circuit was announced today by Marvin H. McIntyre, a secretary of President Roosevelt.

ADMINISTRATION HOLDS NEW TAX PLAN TOO SMALL

Commissioner Says It Will Not Meet Money Needs

By Douglas B. Cornell
Associated Press Staff Writer
Washington, March 30.—(P)—The House Ways and Means committee was told plainly today by Guy T. Helvering, internal revenue commissioner, that it $799,000,000 tax program, while promising tax equity, would not meet administration money needs.

Hardly had he stepped down as the first witness before the committee when Representative Lamneck (D-Ohio) roundly assailed the new revenue plan on the House floor with the assertion it would "destroy every small incorporated business institution in the country."

Following this open attack, the committee in continuing its hearings heard M. L. Seidman of the New York board of trade characterize the proposed corporation tax as a "revolutionary change." He said it would "turn upside down the established methods of producing government revenues from corporation income."

In his testimony, Helvering suggested that the congressional tax drafters consider tapping additional sources of temporary funds to bring the projected tax bill "into full consistency with the president's recommendations for redressing the budget."

The commissioner warned against padding too thickly the "cushions" contemplated for "certain types of corporations."

Virtually every case of special treatment, he said, involves loss of revenue and "it is highly desirable that they be kept at a minimum consistent with fairness and sound public policy."

For the general program brought forward by the committee for public hearings, the commissioner had only words of commendation. A new tax on corporation incomes, based on portions held in reserves, he said, would produce an additional $391,000,000 mainly by removing inequalities, discrimination and opportunities for tax avoidance.

But, he added, it still would fall short of the $620,000,000 sought from this source by the president. More important, he said, was the fact that no complete provision has been made for "the additional temporary revenues that will be required."

Supreme Court Rules Against Sugar Institute

High Tribunal Orders That Its Activities Be Curtailed

By W. H. Mylander
Associated Press Staff Writer
Washington, March 30.—(P)—Previous activities of the Sugar Institute, Inc., were ordered curtailed sharply by the Supreme Court today in an anti-trust law decision of major importance to the nation's 2,000 trade associations.

The high tribunal ruled unanimously that the organization of sugar refiners had acted "in unreasonable restraint" of competition in steps interpreted as compelling "adherence to price."

Government lawyers, who had won in lower courts an order enjoining the institute from continuing 45 cooperative practices, hailed the decision as a "sweeping victory."

The administration also won another battle—this one of a tactical nature—when the court rejected an appeal for review of a case intended to test constitutionality of the utility holding company act.

ALLEGED SLAYER OF LINDBERGH BABY WILL BE EXECUTED TONIGHT

MRS. HAUPTMANN IN TEARS AFTER VISIT TO CELL

Refuses To Relinquish Hope Her Husband Will Be Saved

By Mary Elizabeth Plummer
Associated Press Staff Writer
Trenton, N. J., March 30.—(P)—Mrs. Anna Hauptmann wept tonight in her hotel room after paying seemingly her last visit to her husband in the death house.

"There must be some way out, there must be some way out," she moaned. Although stunned by a double blow—the news that the court of persons had again refused her husband clemency and Gov. Hoffman's announcement, "there will be no reprieve"—Mrs. Hauptmann refused to relinquish all hope.

"This is not the last I shall see of Richard," she said. As she left the death house.

"He did not say goodbye to me," she related Mrs. Paulmann. "He said 'auf-wiederssehen.' 'Until we meet again.'"

Col. Mark Q. Kimberling, principal keeper of the New Jersey state prison, said it probably was her last visit. "I don't think we shall admit her again."

"We don't do it in other cases, and I don't think we will in this."

Col. Kimberling explained "we have received no request from her so far for another visit, but if we do, I think it will be denied."

News that clemency had been denied by the court of pardons left Mrs. Hauptmann grief-stricken. She flung herself on the bed in her hotel room, sobbing.

She was writing a letter to her husband when a relative, Harry John Whitney, brought the news in the form of a press release.

Reluctant to tell her, Whitney talked with her at first about friends and relatives.

Mrs. Hauptmann was still weeping when C. Lloyd Fisher and Frederick A. Pope, Hauptmann's counsel, went to her room.

When she had regained her composure, she reiterated "I'm confident that something will happen to save him." Then she finished the letter to her mother.

Hauptmann's wife emerged from the death house before the court of pardons reached its decision.

As she came down the steps she was repeating in a confident voice—"I'm sure New Jersey won't kill an innocent man."

Italy Is Ready To Attend Any New Conference

Will Maintain Same Reserve Manifested At London Session

Rome, March 30.—(P)—An Italian official said tonight Italy will attend any new conference of remaining Locarno members with the same reserve she manifested at the recent London session.

The Fascist position on general staff conferences, this source declared, would await announcement of Adolf Hitler's reply to the Locarno peace suggestions.

Italy has neither accepted nor rejected the Locarno proposals submitted to Germany and subsequently rejected by the Reichsfuehrer.

As the Fascist nation awaited developments in the European situation, the government announced the bombing of Harar, second city in Ethiopia, by Italian planes Sunday.

The Communiqué also described the occupation by the Blackshirts of columns of Debarek, capital of Ughera, and Socota, important caravan junction.

Premier Mussolini received Max Hultner, an official of the International Red Cross, who is in the Italian capital discussing reported abuse of the Red Cross symbol with Italian officials.

Lobby Committee Has Completed Investigation

William Randolph Hearst Is Attacked From Senate Floor

By Richard L. Turner
Associated Press Staff Writer
Washington, March 30.—(P)—Completion of the Senate lobby committee's field investigation was disclosed today, simultaneously with a new outburst from the Senate floor against William Randolph Hearst for his criticism of the committee's conduct.

Senator Minton (D-Ind.), a lobby committee member, aroused by editorial reference to the committee in Hearst's papers, told the Senate that "we are a better breed of swine than Hearst and the pusillanimous pen-pusher, the writer of this editorial."

Minton contended that freedom of the press means to Hearst "license to traduce and vilify public officers as swine and traitors to their country."

Ending of the field work of the committee, it was said, likewise meant an end to the much-criticized seizure of telegraphic correspondence, among it some of Hearst's wires.

Present plans, it was disclosed, call only for hearings, to be spread over a number of weeks, in the course of which financial sources and activities of a number of organizations—including the Liberty League, the Sentinels of the Republic and the Crusaders—will be put upon the record.

Committee sources contended it was ending its examination of telegrams because the committee's work was about done, not because of the numerous protests. Committee members have argued throughout the controversy that their activities were amply sustained by law and senatorial precedent.

There will be no reprieve."

Only some startling new development that might lead the governor to change his mind and disregard the attorney general's opinion that his power to reprieve has expired, seemed able to save the former Bronx carpenter.

The action of the pardons court and the governor were followed tonight by reports that Governor Hoffman had received a communication that Hauptmann might be ready "to talk more."

There were denied officially but a source close to the governor said Mrs. Anna Hauptmann, wife of the condemned man, had been in communication with the chief executive.

After C. Lloyd Fisher, chief defense attorney, had informed Hauptmann of the adverse rulings of the day, he said Hauptmann had sent a message by him to his wife but would not reveal the nature of it.

Recognize Cook For Discovery Of North Pole

Mark Twain Society Had Awarded Him Honorary Membership

St. Louis, March 30.—(P)—The International Mark Twain Society today announced it had awarded an honorary membership to Dr. Frederick A. Cook, Chicago, "in recognition of his discovery of the north pole."

Cyril Clemens, president of the society, said the group was not trying to render a decision between Dr. Cook and the late Admiral Robert E. Peary, whose controversy rocked the scientific world near the close of the first decade of the century.

"We do feel," said Clemens, "that it is probable Dr. Cook really discovered the north pole, and that at least he is its co-discoverer and deserves as much credit as Admiral Peary. It is unjust to continue to regard him as a faker."

Clemens, cousin of Mark Twain, said the society's action had been based upon a re-examination of Dr. Cook's claims and in part upon the strong support accorded the explorer by Capt. Roald Amundsen, discoverer of the south pole.

Membership in the society is extended for "outstanding achievement in any field of knowledge."

The Underworld Stirs

All that the famous Lindbergh tragedy needs now is a master novelist to paint an adequate word picture of the weird plots and counterplots that have come to light on account of a brutal kidnapping and murder of an innocent child. Such a novel, if written, would have hundreds of characters, many of them shrouded in mystery, many more enmeshed in a political scandal that reaches into the New Jersey capital. As the time for execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann still the master criminal despite all efforts to prove him otherwise, the characters move more rapidly across the stage and "confessions" and statements are hurled back and forth so quickly that they become only "scraps of paper" before the eyes of a dazed public, striving to get at the bottom of the case.

If Hauptmann goes to the chair tonight, this case will not be ended. There are actions of high officials that must be explained, charges of those who have been hastily accused of the crime and who have made "confessions" that must be answered. The case has brought forth a dozen mysteries that may never be fathomed. It has resulted in one suicide, and has meant imprisonment for some who have tried to graft from its victims and their friends.

About the case there has grown up a political struggle that involves the entire state of New Jersey. High officials may have many things to explain. Never have the people seen such peculiar happenings in connection with a criminal case. Voices come from the depths of prisons and from the heights of political authority to make themselves heard in this strange proceeding.

On a black night in the spring of 1932 a child was carried from a new home that stood in queer contrast to its environment of the desolate Soudan mountain country. The circumstances of that crime were so mysterious that they baffled a nation. But they were no more startling than the chain of events they started, one of which may be the electrocution of Hauptmann tonight. Into this lurid drama have stepped nursemaids, chauffeurs, aviators, gangsters, attorneys, politicians, governors, detectives, police, carpenters, engineers, experts of all sorts, women jurors, reporters, boat-builders, educators, all to play their parts, some to remain to the last, others to vanish into obscurity. And the end is not yet.

We're Not Sentimental

The song, "Gloomy Sunday," that caused thirty Hungarians to commit suicide, made no such impression on a group of Americans when it was played for the first time in Chicago this week. The song is reputed to be unusually sad, depicting the plight of a lover who has been bereft. It makes mention of a shroud.

When it was played, some in the group of listeners managed to squeeze out a few tears, but nobody sought the top floor of a skyscraper for a last long leap. Americans are not that sentimental.

We are told the Hungarians take their music very seriously, and that a favorite song played in a cafe, may cause them to give away all their money, their watches and their jewels. It is hoped most of the people who frequent Hungarian cafes are honest. It would hardly do to try such an experiment in some of our night clubs.

"Gloomy Sunday" is not likely to cause anyone to commit suicide in this country, but if it is played much via radio, the nettled American will probably turn to a station where he can get a good laugh. We don't like too much "sob stuff" in our entertainment. Perhaps we are rather "hard boiled," but the sad, wailing variety of music gives us no thought of suicide; but we admit rather uncharitable feelings toward the musicians who perpetrate the stuff.

Horror of Harar

Over the second city in Ethiopia roared more than a score of Italian planes. They dropped incendiary bombs everywhere and left the city in flames. The inhabitants, warned by the sight of scouting planes, had fled before the raid; but the city was practically destroyed, and when they returned, they found a flaming ruin. An Ethiopian city is not a pretentious place, but it is the abode of human beings. There is no report that Harar was equipped with bomb-proof cellars or anti-aircraft guns. It had no means of defense against planes. There are few cities in the world that could resist such an invasion.

The Italian assault was one of many in the very definite campaign to conquer Ethiopia. Despite the handicaps of climate and topography, all the advantage in this war lie with the Italians, because they have planes and motorized war equipment. The bombing of a defenseless cluster of mud huts can hardly be called a victory.

We are told several hospitals were hit, also churches. It is worthy of note that a certain elevation above the object of attack causes the attacker to lose the power of discrimination. He could hardly be blamed for bombing a hospital if he did not know what it was. Anyhow he might have been aiming at something else. It is hard to climb correctly when one is traveling at high speed several hundred feet above the objective.

War from the air is thus strangely free from proof of guilt. When it is accepted as a method of warfare, those who conduct it are freed from any undue responsibility. The horror of Harar does not impress the men who carried it; only those on the ground take the brunt of the awful experience.

Warning From Alaska

The exigencies of unemployment in the United States, together with the lure of gold and adventure in the Far North, once more is turning a tide of immigration toward Alaska.

So heavy, in fact, has become the flood of inquiries regarding opportunities in the territory that the government there has issued warnings against premature settlement.

There is opportunity in Alaska, perhaps for several thousand people, but adequate financing and steady employment ought to be assured before anyone tries the hard life of the north.

Gold? Mineralogists of the Bureau of Mines report there is probably as much gold left in Alaska as was ever taken out. But the catch is that it is not mined so easily. It takes money to acquire gold in Alaska.

As for the other industries, employment is scarce and agriculture is practically out of the question until markets are developed.

Il Duce Checks Profits

Whatever one may conclude about Mussolini's corporate state, there is no doubt that Il Duce offers an interesting challenge to the war makers.

By his latest decree all large private industries are placed under state control and management, to the end that there will be no profiteering in Italy in the event of another war.

And such war is inevitable, Il Duce believes. Hence, he warns, it is vital that the state clamp down now on any opportunity for huge private gain incident to a conflict.

Obviously, of course, Mussolini's latest extension of his dictatorship is not surprising. He has aimed at no less than nationalization of Italian industry for a long time. But it is significant that, having recognized the place of profiteering in war making, he has moved to abolish it.

Widow of Former Business Man Here Dies After Extended Illness

Mrs. Fannie Cohen, widow of the late Jacob Cohen who was in business here for many years, died yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ramonovsky in LaSalle, Ill. She had been in failing health for several years.

High School Girl Commits Suicide

Onawa, Ia., March 30.—(P)—Ruth Hathaway, 18, Onawa High school senior class president, drank a glass of poison in the high school locker room this afternoon after telling several classmates "watch me commit suicide."

She died within a few minutes.

Reva Terry, Rosina Junser, and Phyllis Smith, who were in the locker room at the time, said they first thought the girl was joking.

She held the glass containing the poison in one hand and four letters in the other. The letters remained clutched in her hand as she fell to the floor.

They were address to the senior class, the faculty, her dramatics teacher, and her mother.

Classmates said she had feared she was losing her eyesight. They said she gave her class ring to a girl friend a few hours before drinking the poison.

Not Agency For Propaganda

Urbana, Ill., March 30.—(P)—President Arthur Cutts Willard declared today the University of Illinois regarded "peace strikes" and similar student demonstrations beyond the province of an educational institution.

In a statement to the student newspaper, the educator declared, "the university recognizes that freedom in the search for facts x x x is fundamental, but the university is not and cannot be an agency for propaganda."

Officials of the University of Illinois ROTC claim it is the second largest such unit in the United States. A peace strike here last year attracted but a handful of students.

A rail detector car, a device by which damaged rails in railroad tracks can be detected, and which is operated by the Burlington railroad, has been in use on this division of the Burlington for several weeks and just completed a test of rails in 480 miles of the double track on the main line of the Beardstown division between Bushnell and Herrin.

In the test, the detector disclosed 162 rails having internal transverse and horizontal fissures.

The construction and operation of the machine is explained in the following story by E. C. Goehrig, Burlington roadmaster:

Built in 1932
The machine was constructed by the Burlington railroad in 1932 and has been in continuous operation since. While this is the first test made on the division, the outfit is scheduled to test certain lines once each year, which program requires its operation throughout the entire year.

It is propelled by a gasoline engine mounted in a separate unit. The equipment carries a regular assigned crew of four men, consisting of an engineer in charge, two electrical operators and one mechanical operator for the propelling car. A conductor pilot is furnished by each division for main track movements. An average of 15 miles of single track is tested each day at an estimated cost of $100.00 a day. Slow orders are issued to protect traffic over rails found defective and the restricted speed order is maintained in force until the rail has been replaced by the maintenance forces.

Uses Electricity
The test car is constructed to contain equipment and apparatus consisting of a low voltage electrical generator capable of furnishing 5000 amperes of current to energize the rails. Necessary radio amplifiers are provided to disclose the slightest distortion of the magnetic pens on a moving chart, indicating the defects. The mechanism also operates a paint gun which automatically spots the rails at the point of defect. This apparatus successfully functions in all kinds of weather, with temperatures registering 35 degrees below to 115 degrees above zero, and becomes inoperative only by deep snow covering the rails.

Headache

"Inside Facts" that may help you ...

The first step toward relieving simple headache is to understand its cause. Pain is the cry of over-taxed nerves for rest. And when we realize that the nerves spread throughout every part of the body (see head diagram) we understand how serious a nervous disturbance can be.

In selecting a remedy for headache, periodic pains, and other nerve pain use one that soothes the tense nerves. Capudine is ideally suited for simple headache, neuralgic pain, rheumatic, or periodic pain because it relieves high nerve tension and brings welcome relaxation. Also remember that Capudine is quicker because it is a liquid—its ingredients are already dissolved. No narcotics or opiates.

A New McCormick-Deering Planter Assures Positive, Accurate Planting

It Saves Seed and Increases Efficiency

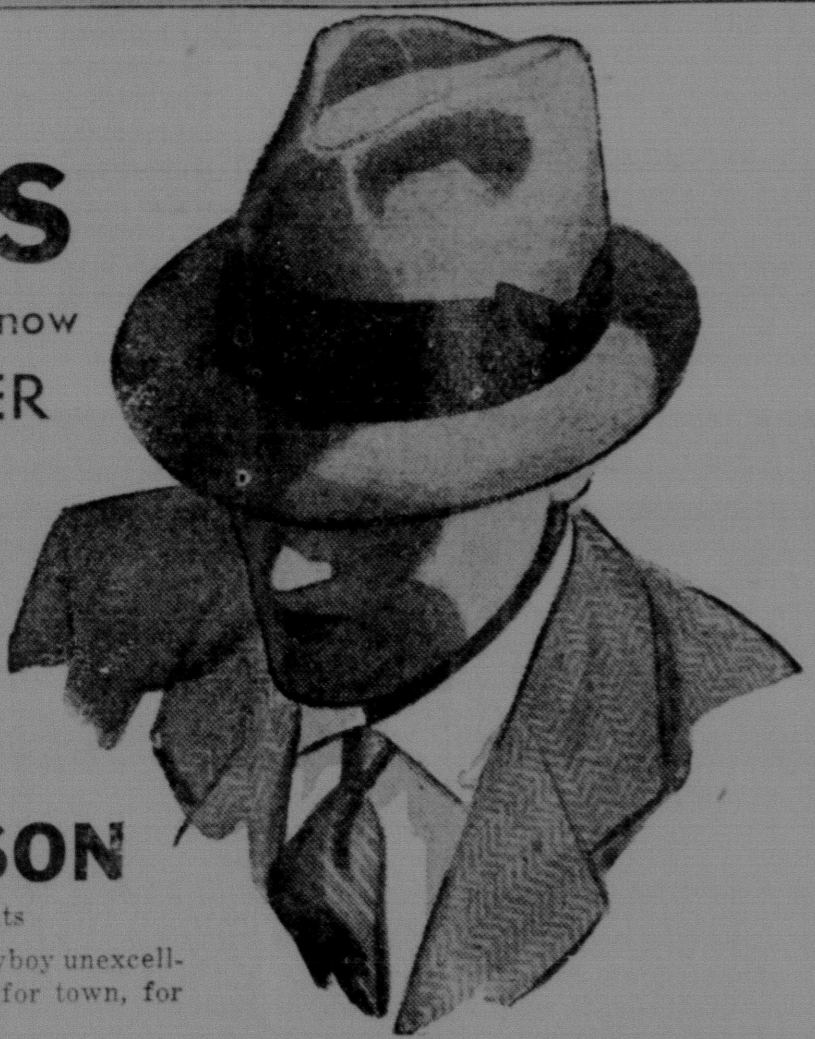

Go into your fields this spring with a new McCormick-Deering Corn Planter and you will have complete confidence that your corn is being given the best possible start. The split - row fertilizer boot available for McCormick - Deering checkrow planters deposits the fertilizer in the soil on both sides of the hill—the fertilizer cannot come in contact with the seed.

The dependable, durable clutch in McCormick-Deering Planters works unfailingly every time the check fork is tripped. Plunger - type valves provide proper placing of the hills. It is impossible to get the seed plates out of time with the receiving valves. Accumulation of the desired 2, 3, or 4 kernels to the hill before the valves open is always certain.

4-H TRAINING IS
STEP TO COLLEGE
COURSE FOR MANY

Urbana, Ill.—Training which approximately 26,000 Illinois boys and girls get in 4-H club work in Illinois every year is encouraging an increasing number of them to continue their learning at state agricultural colleges or other institutions of higher learning, according to figures which the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois has just received from the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

This year 421 of the 1,026 students enrolled in agricultural and home economics at the University of Illinois are former 4-H members who conducted definite projects in better farming and homemaking practices under supervision of their county farm and home advisers and the extension service of the agricultural college.

High school teachers of vocational agriculture also are credited with having been a force for encouraging further scholastic training on the part of farm boys through work which they have done as local leaders of 4-H clubs in their communities and thru personal contact with the boys and their parents.

That 4-H club work is turning an increasing number of young men and women to state agricultural colleges is shown by figures for the 13 central states. In the 1927-28 college year when the first survey was made, there were only 751 former 4-H club members enrolled as students as compared with 3,395 reported for the current college year, a gain of 352 per cent.

The 421 former 4-H members enrolled in the University of Illinois comprise more than 41 per cent of the total enrollment of 1,026 in agriculture and home economics. Of this total number 655 are in agricultural courses and 371 in home economics. Illinois ranks second among the 13 central states in the number of 4-H members now enrolled in agricultural courses at the state university. Of 655 U. of I. agricultural students in this year's registration 280 are former 4-H members. Iowa is first with 325 out of 1,021 and Ohio third with 278 out of 731.

"REALITY" SUBJECT OF LESSON-SERMON

"Reality" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 29.

The Golden Text was, "The word of the Lord endureth for ever. And this is the word which by the gospel is preached unto you" (I Peter 1:25). Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "And Jesus went about all the cities and villages teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people" (Matthew 9:35).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus' works established his claim to the Messiahship. In reply to John's inquiry, 'Art thou he that should come?' Jesus returned an affirmative reply, recounting his works instead of referring to his doctrine, confident that this exhibition of the divine power to heal would fully answer the question" (pp. 131-2).

Government Helps 88 Boys And Girls Attend High School

Students In This County
Draw Total Of $438
For Extra Work

Student aid provided by the National Youth Administration for Illinois enabled 88 boys and girls in Morgan county to continue their high school work during present school term, according to figures just released by William J. Campbell, state NYA director.

A total of $438 is received monthly by Morgan county students for part-time work after class hours, consisting of clerical work in offices and class rooms, library service, preparation of work for shop classes and similar efforts. The number of hours worked does not exceed twenty hours monthly, for which a maximum wage of $6 is paid, the figures show.

In addition to high school aid in the county, 134 undergraduate college students are being helped through MacMurray and Illinois Colleges by the National Youth Administration. College students in Morgan county receive a monthly total of $1,515 for part-time efforts after classes.

School aid constitutes only part of the NYA program, which includes recreational projects and part-time work for youths between the ages of 16 and 25 years coming from relief or WPA families.

Each puff less acid A LIGHT SMOKE OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

The simple mechanical details of cigarette manufacture are of surprising importance. Upon them depend the physical properties of the cigarette, such as weight, size, firmness, moisture-holding properties, uniformity of fill, uniformity of product—all of which have a far-reaching effect on the character of its combustion and the constituents of its smoke.

In the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes all of these properties have been standardized with care for the perfection of A LIGHT SMOKE.

Are You a John or a Tom?

(short, short story)

John: "How's the new home, Tom?"

Tom: "Fine, why don't you buy a home instead of paying rent?"

John: "I can't afford to buy a home."

Tom: "How much money have you paid out in rent the past ten years?"

John: "Why lets see! $30 a month."

Tom: "Well, that's $3600. It would be paid for a home if it were financed the Savings and Loan way. The payments are like rent. You pay principal and interest monthly."

John: "That sounds easy enough. I'm going to investigate the Savings and Loan plan today. You say the Savings and Loan Association is in the Applebee Building on West State Street? I'll go right down and talk to the secretary."

James Lonergan, Sr Taken By Death Near Murrayville

Death Occurs At Home Of Daughter; Funeral Is Set For Wednesday

James Lonergan Sr., a lifetime resident of Morgan county, passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John Langdon, south of Murrayville, at 3:30 o'clock Monday morning after a lingering illness of several months.

Mr. Lonergan was born in Jacksonville, Ill., Jan. 14, 1858. He followed the occupation of farming east of Woodson until the year of 1913 and since that time he has made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Langdon.

In 1883 he was united in marriage to Miss Mary Sullivan of Jacksonville, who preceded him in death June 23, 1916. To this union were born eight children. One son, John, died in 1906 and a daughter, Lena, who died in 1921.

The following children survive: Mrs. John Langdon, Murrayville; Mrs. Frank Terzwell and C. J. Lonergan Woodson; Mrs. Dan Winters and R. E. Lonergan of this city, and Paul Lonergan of Burbank, Calif.

He was a faithful member of St. Bartholomew's Catholic church of Murrayville, from where services will be held Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock. Burial will be in the Murrayville cemetery.

Veteran Teacher Of Pike County Passes Away Very Suddenly

Jas. Samuel Brooks Taught School At Valley City Thirty-Six Years

Griggsville—James Samuel Brooks, who has been a teacher in the schools of Pike county for thirty eight years, thirty-six of which have been in Valley City, died at his late home there Sunday at 8:05 a.m.

He died suddenly and before medical assistance could reach him, from what seemed to be a stroke. He had had a similar spell Friday morning but rallied and went to school and taught. He had arisen Sunday morning and dressed when he was stricken.

He was born in Perry township, Pike county, Illinois, March 20, 1876.

On August 28, 1907 he was united in marriage with Ursula Ross, who with one son, Ross, survives him.

He was a member and trustee of the Valley City M. E. church and held in the highest esteem of all who knew him. He was a member of the Modern Woodmen of America.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Skinner Funeral Home in this city, with burial in Griggsville cemetery.

David H. Cook

Funeral services for David H. Cook who died Friday at St. John's hospital in Springfield, were held at the graveside in Griggsville cemetery, Sunday at 2:00 p.m. with interment following, the Rev. Oscar P. Jones, pastor of the Griggsville M. E. church, officiating.

He was born July 6, 1864 at Auburn, Sangamon county, Ill.

Mr. Cook married Minnie Barnett who died in 1920. He is survived by one son, William Clyde of Springfield, Ill., and five grandchildren. He is also survived by one brother, William of Griggsville.

He had a serious operation on Nov. 7 last and had been slowly failing since that time.

Centenary Church Notes

Members and friends of Centenary were made anxious when they learned their pastor, Rev. M. M. Blair had been taken to Passavant hospital for an operation for appendicitis. This was undergone Friday morning and it is with pleasure that we are able to announce that he is making satisfactory recovery at this time. All will be delighted to see Rev. Blair again in good health.

The pulpit was filled by Dr. H. J. Lennox of MacMurray College at the morning service. He drew an impressive lesson from the statement of St. Paul in which he declared that "Jesus was a pioneer in living." This message was heard by a goodly number of worshippers and the general services for the day were well attended. Mrs. Clyde Black sang with tender beauty "Come Ye Blessed" as a solo.

Wednesday evening the fourth of the church night services will be held at 8:30. Dr. T. B. Lugg will be in charge and an important part of this service will be under the direction of the Loyal Men's Bible class. The usual classes and potluck supper will be a part of the exercises.

Saturday at 2:00 p.m., the King's Herald will meet with Verla Admire, 414 South Lafayette.

Earnest appeal is made to all members and friends to attend all Centenary's services. Give Rev. Blair assurance of your deep interest in him and his work through this grand old church.

White Hall.—Thomas M. Hull died at his home on Main street at 3:10 o'clock yesterday morning. He was born April 27, 1860, in a house just three hundred feet from the home in which he spent his entire life. He was the son of Thomas and Elizabeth Weeks Hull, who came here from Jersey City, N. Y.

 HYDRAULIC BRAKES —The safest brakes made... self-qualizing... always sure, quick, even-acting.	 DOUBLE-ACTION BRAKES —Plymouth's 100% hydraulic brakes don't depend on "wrapping" wheel action (left-hand picture)... but exert equal pressure throughout (see right, above).	 SAFETY-STEEL BODY —Plymouth's body is Safety-Steel like a modern railroad coach. And bolted horizontally and vertically to car frame gives safest, quietest construction.	 PATENTED FLOATING POWER —Ordinary engine mounting... as at left... transmits engine vibrations to rest of car. Patented Floating Power engine mounting... at right... hold engine in balance... absorbing vibration before it begins.
 PLYMOUTH HAS FOUR MAIN BEARINGS —Instead of three. Thus every piston stroke is supported by two big bearings. (Like driving a nail in a solidly supported board.)	 FULL-LENGTH WATER JACKETS —circulate water all around each cylinder instead of half way. This means better cooling... a reason for Plymouth's economy and long life.	 DIRECTIONAL WATER CIRCULATION —In the picture at the left, the girls farthest from the fan aren't getting much benefit of the cooling breeze... illustrating the old type engine cooling system. The picture at the right illustrates Plymouth's directional cooling which forces cool water at	 high velocity to all exhaust valve assemblies. This, combined with full-length water jackets, lowers oil temperatures as much as 50°... improves lubricating efficiency... saves oil. Plymouth owners report amazingly low oil consumption as well as 13 to 24 miles per gallon of gasoline.

Don't take our word for it... Compare value... Drive "All Three" low-priced cars... then decide!

TREND TO CLOVERS SHOWN BY PICK-UP IN LIMESTONE USE

Urbana, Ill.—Trends toward more legumes and better balanced cropping systems on Illinois farms are reflected in the rate at which limestone is again being used to sweeten acid soils and insure the success of legumes, according to C. M. Linsley, soils extension specialist of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Effingham county, cited as an example, more than doubled its 1934 record and used a total of 11,500 tons of limestone during the past year, according to reports from Farm Adviser V. D. Evans. Ten thousand tons were shipped in. This made around 250

40-ton cars, or five trains of limestone of 50 cars each. The remaining 1,500 tons were bought by farmers from a local quarry in Effingham county.

One Effingham county farmer, W. Joergens, near Dietrich, applied five carloads, or a total of 200 tons, to sweeten his acid soils so that legumes could be grown for feed, soil improvement and better balanced cropping systems. He is liming his entire farm.

Another Effingham farmer, Joe Bierman, near Wheeler, used 180 tons on his 400-acre farm.

Increasing acreages of legumes can be grown successfully in Illinois only if more limestone is used since much of the soil is so acid it will not grow clovers and soil-building legumes successfully Linsley explained. Once limestone has been applied and the soil sweetened the acreage of legumes mounts. In Effingham county for instance, only 7,000 acres of sweet clover were grown in 1929, while in 1934 there were 9,500 acres. Similarly the county had only 300 acres of alfalfa in 1929, whereas in 1934 it grew 1,300 acres of this legume. In Effingham, as in other counties of the state, most of the increase in legume acreages is being made with such crops as lespedeza, sweet clover, and alfalfa.

Other farmers in the county, set upon expanding their acreages of legumes, discovered that alfalfa would grow successfully on the better upland tight clay soils of the county when limed, he said.

TOBY RYAN, 19, works behind the jewelry counter of a large downtown department store. He has been trying for some time to get a photograph to be used in a store advertisement and MAYNIE HART, the photographer, tells her she has a "camera in."

Discharged from the store due to the scheming of jealous M. H. HALL, Toby has been looking for another job. Then he meets Maynied and she tells him that she has a "camera in."

At a style show where she is modeling, Toby meets Maynied. She also sees wealthy TIM JAMIESON who has been trying for some time to get a photograph to be used in a store advertisement and MAYNIE HART, the photographer, tells her she has a "camera in."

CHAPTER XVII

FOR the rest of that week Toby saw Tim Jamieson or had some word from him every day. They had dinner together twice and then Toby had an evening assignment and had to work. She made it up to Tim by lunching with him next day—a luncheon at a hotel where Toby, whenever she had happened to walk past, had looked curiously at the men and women entering or leaving. She was sure they must be very rich or celebrities of some sort. Toby had never expected to enter those doors herself.

She was impressed by the fact that the head waiter seemed to know Tim, greeted him effusively and called him, "Mr. Jamieson." But then, it was that way most of the places they went.

Tim sent her an enormous box of roses, long-stemmed and fragrant. He said they reminded him of Toby as she had looked in the rose-colored evening dress she had worn in the fashion show. The roses were beautiful and Toby, lifting them from the box, had buried her face in the blossoms, drinking in their sweetness. But the card that came with them was more precious. She took it from the little white envelope and read: "To remind you that a certain lad can't stop thinking about you—Tim."

The flowers faded and drooped after a few days, but Toby kept the card.

She had to break a word with Bill. He was a little worried about that, but Tim had promised to take her to a new place and, of course, she could see Bill any time. She rather wanted to see Bill, to tell him all the things she had been doing lately. Bill was oldest of all friends. Her very oldest. It didn't seem right to Toby that, when life had become so exciting, Bill shouldn't know about it.

It was Harriet Holm, though, in whom she confided, Harriet had seen Tim and agreed with Toby that he was handsome.

The two girls sat in a restaurant a few doors from the building where the Models' League had its office. Harriet broke the edge from a butter cake and said, "He certainly seems to have fallen for you. And in a hurry, too!"

"Well," Toby said, "it wasn't really in such a hurry. I mean I told you how we kept meeting each other, just by accident. And I wouldn't tell him my telephone number or tell him where I lived or anything. But it didn't seem to make any difference. I'd go some place—and there he'd be. It seems funny now when I think about it."

"I suppose," Harriet interrupted, "that sometimes it happens that way. You see someone and decide right away that's the right one for you."

Toby nodded solemnly. "Yes," she said, "sometimes I suppose it does."

"It wasn't that way with Clyde and me," Harriet went on. "I met him several times at parties and places before he even asked for a date."

"Clyde? Who's he?"

"Harriet! I told you about Clyde!" Toby shook her head.

Harriet said, "That's funny. I guess I thought everybody knew about him. We're going to be married—well, as soon as everything gets settled. His name's Sabin—Clyde Sabin. As soon as he gets back—he's on a business trip—I want you to meet him. Maybe we can go together some evening."

"I'd love to," Toby said. "Oh, Harriet, I didn't know you were going to be married! Why didn't you tell me?"

The other smiled. "I don't know."

"Aren't you excited about it?"

"Yes. When I can believe it's really true. You see, we've waited quite a while. I hope it won't be much longer. Maybe it will be just a day. Clyde said just before he left that he thought it could be in June."

"Tell me about him. What does he do?"

"Well, he has quite an important job. He works for a company that makes office equipment—adding machines and addressographs and things like that. They send him out of town a lot and he brings his car with him. He's not exactly good looking—at least, I don't think so. But he's big and he dresses well and, altogether, I think he's pretty grand."

TOBY said, "I'm sure he is."

She was surprised, though, at what Harriet had said. Toby had supposed it was lack of money that had postponed Harriet's wedding; with most young people it seemed to be that. But if Clyde Sabin had such a good job, it couldn't be money. She wondered what was delaying the wedding plans, but she didn't want to seem curious or ask questions.

So she turned to another subject. "There's something I've been wanting to ask you, Harriet," she said. "I'd like to move from the place where I'm living. It's so dingy and sort of run-down. Not very convenient, either. Of course, it's cheap, and I was glad to find it when I was working at Bergman's, but I can afford something better now. I was wondering if you might know of any place."

Harriet nodded. "You ought to be able to find something," she agreed. "I've found my place. I think I looked at every room that was for rent within a mile either way. Let's see, I ought to be able to remember."

She stopped suddenly. "Why," she exclaimed. "I don't know why I didn't think of it before. It's—yes, of course, it would be all right!"

"What would be?"

"Just this. Why don't you move in with me? You see, I've been trying to save some money lately. I've got to have some new clothes when I'm married, some really nice ones. I'd be glad to have you come in with me if you'd like to. It will cut my rent in half, and be cheaper for you, too. I'm sure we'd get along together."

"I suppose," Harriet interrupted, "that sometimes it happens that way. You see someone and decide right away that's the right one for
